SHARING IDEA

The bottom line is that sharing ideas at work can lead to increased revenue for the company. The improvements in business processes, cost-reducing measures and enhanced customer service will translate into more euro in the bank.

Everyone knows that two heads are better than one. Most businesses already encourage the sharing of ideas at work. It could be brainstorming sessions, team-building events, quiet rooms dedicated to interaction and collaboration. Or even strategically placed sofas around the water cooler to encourage conversation and ideation.
